The biblical quote, "Let Love Be Your Highest Goal", which is stenciled on the kitchen wall in Steven and Christina's home, is a principal that guides this young, active, family in their daily lives. Steven and Christina are patient and nurturing parents who focus on the individual strengths and talents of their children. Steven and Christina are experienced parents who have an understanding of the rewards and challenges that accompany raising children with special needs. They are Knowledgeable about the resources available in their community and are currently accessing many of these services for the benefit of their family.

Steven and Christina have a strong marriage and a large support network of family, which will undoubtedly benefit them throughout their adoption journey. Steven and Christina's children are excited about the prospect of new siblings. When speaking with the children about the adoption process, it is apparent that their mother and father have taken the time to process thoughts and feelings with each of them. The children appear excited about adoption and ready to welcome a new child or children into their lives.

Steven and Christina are approved to adopt one to two children, male or female, of any race/ethnicity, ages 0-6. They have the knowledge, skills, and ability to parent children with mild to moderate special needs.

A strength-based approach to parenting, experience with special needs, a strong family relationship, and a healthy sense of humor make Steven and Christina a wonderful option for waiting children. Please phone Permanent Family Resource Center for more information on Steven and Christina.
